Andrew Robertson

andrew@moka.law | 332.282.6639

Andrew has nearly two decades of experience representing plaintiffs and defendants in complex, high-stakes litigation, including securities class actions, derivative litigations and FINRA arbitrations. Based in New York, Andrew has represented clients in state and federal courts across the country.

Andrew has particular expertise in matters involving investment advisers and financial services firms. He has litigated all types of claims on behalf of investors and industry participants, including disclosure claims under the federal securities laws, breach of fiduciary duty by fund directors and officers, mismanagement of client accounts, and unsuitable investment recommendations. He also has consulted with fund advisers and boards concerning a range of non-litigation matters.

Andrew has prosecuted dozens of plaintiff-side securities actions, handling all phases of litigation from pre-complaint investigation through trial and appeal. He recently served as lead trial counsel in two of the largest actions ever tried on behalf of mutual fund shareholders.

Andrew previously practiced in the New York office of Milbank LLP, where he represented some of the world's leading financial institutions and their officers and directors in securities and commercial litigation, arbitration, and regulatory enforcement proceedings.
